46TH ANNUAL PAUL SHORT RUN
HOSTED BY LEHIGH UNIVERSITY
OCTOBER 5, 2019

JEFFREY KIRSHENBAUM
ASHLEIGH CRAWFORD

PRESENTED BY ASICS®
Ladies and Gentlemen,

Lehigh University would like to welcome you to the 2019 Paul Short Run, presented by Asics. For 46 years, the university and its cross country programs have been proud to host this event and the approximately 6,000 runners who compete in it. This year, nearly 450 colleges and high schools will compete on the Goodman Campus in races throughout the morning and afternoon.

For your convenience, bathrooms are located in the stadium. For the safety of all fans and student-athletes at the race today, smoking and consumption of alcoholic beverages are not permitted near the race area.

Complete results for the 46th-annual Paul Short Run at Lehigh University will be available online at Lehighsports.com. In depth information regarding the race and full results will be available online at www.paulshortxcrun.com.

For the 16th year, the ChampionChip System will assist in keeping track of times. Each runner will have a computer chip on his/her shoe that will transmit an identification number and the runner’s time to the finish-line computers. The mats placed along the finish line contain antennas to which the identification number is set to. In this year’s race, runners in the college races and the high school competitors will each have one chip. The ChampionChip system was first introduced in The Netherlands in 1994 and was first commercially used in the 1994 Berlin Marathon. Since its inception, the ChampionChip has been used in many events including the prestigious Boston Marathon and the Ironman Triathlon.

As a reminder, the NCAA and Lehigh promote good sportsmanship by student-athletes, coaches and spectators. We request your cooperation by supporting the participants and officials in a positive manner. Profanity, racial, sexist or other abusive comments or actions directed at officials, student-athletes, coaches or team representatives will not be tolerated and are grounds for removal from the complex.

Thank you for your attendance, and we hope you enjoy today’s races.

The 45th Annual Paul Short Run, presented by Asics, saw approximately 6,000 runners from nearly 450 teams convene upon Lehigh University's Goodman Campus Cross Country Course on Sep. 29, 2018 to participate in one of the nation's premier cross country events.

Last year, the Aggies of Utah State won the men's Gold 8K race with a team score of 77 points. Utah State just barely edged out Virginia Tech, finishing second with 80 points. Army West Point finished third with a score of 136, while the University of Guelph managed a fourth-place finish with 142 points. Virginia Tech's Peter Seufer took home the individual championship at 24:11, and was followed by Hofstra's Meshack Kipchirchir (24:29) and Utah State's Adam Hendrickson (24:34).

On the women's side, Yale captured the crown in the Gold 6K race. The Bulldogs placed two runners inside the top-15 to help secure the title with a team score of 118. Georgia finished runner-up (127), while Utah State (163) and Cornell (208) finished third and fourth respectively. The race was won by Brogan MacDougall of Queen's University (20:21), followed by Georgia's Jessica Drop (20:24) in second and Utah State's Alyssa Snyder (20:33) in third place.

Queen's University topped the field of the men's 8K Brown Race with 72 points. The Big Red of Cornell took second with a score of 126. Binghamton's Dan Schaffer took the individual crown in 24:37, followed by Siena's Evans Kibert (24:43) and Jason Wetzel (24:53) of Concord. The women's 6K Brown Race saw the Siena Saints take home the crown with a score of 109. Siobhan Quinn of Canisius took first place at 21:02, while Natalie Cooper (21:15) of TCNJ and Carley Lutzow (21:25) of Florida Gulf Coast followed.

The men's college White 8K team title went to Ramapo (105), while Swarthmore finished second at 121 points. NYIT's Noah Simatei won the race at 25:54, and Gannon's Joseph Westrick took second with a time of 26:01. The women's White 6K championship went to Haverford (76), who blew past the field. Eastern was second with 197 points. Kendall Fitzgerald of Post won the crown at 22:43, followed by Muhlenberg's Abigail Dalton (22:52).

The men's Open 8K race saw Daniel Jaskowak cross the finish line in 24:46, taking the top spot out of 437 finishers. Caroline Smith needed 21:34 to capture the individual title in the women's Open 6K race, topping the field of 376 athletes.

In high school 5K action, Cardinal Gibbons (126 points) edged out Salesianum (204 points) to win the Boys' Brown Race. Zach Kline of North Allegheny won the individual title at 15:24. The Girls' Brown championship went to Colonial Forge, with Northern's Marlee Starliper taking the individual crown at 17:58.

Jenkintown took home the Boys' White title with a score of 84 points. Not only did the team win, but Jenkintown's own Jack Miller (15:45) won the race. On the women's side, Bel Air dominated the field, winning with 64 points. The next closest was Delhi at 203 points. Calvary Christian's Abigail Brown and Neshaminy's Kaylee McCullough crossed the line at the same time (19:34).

Lower Merion's Simon Schmieder (17:32) won the Boys JV Race and Union Catholic's Jenna Keith won the Girls JV Race at 20:45.

Who is Paul Short? A History of the Man and Those Behind the Annual Meet

For over four decades, the Paul Short Run has attracted thousands of runners to Lehigh University’s Goodman Campus each fall. From humble beginnings, the annual cross country meet has grown into one of the largest annual cross country meets in the entire nation. With the 46th edition of the annual meet taking place on Oct. 5, many often ask, “Who is Paul Short and what is his significance?”

A native of Belleville, N.J., Paul E. Short ’34 played four sports during his time on South Mountain, competing on the school’s football, wrestling, baseball, and lacrosse teams. A two-way player on the football team, he earned three varsity letters as the starting quarterback and served as team captain in 1932 and 1933. He was chosen as the outstanding football player of the 1930’s and 1940’s during the celebration of the 100 years of football at Lehigh. He was a member of the university’s ROTC program, as well as the Beta Theta Pi fraternity and the Omicron Delta Kappa national leadership honor society.

After graduating with a degree in business administration, Short made stops at Dravo Corporation and Bethlehem Steel before returning to the University in 1938. Over the next 29 years, he would serve as an assistant coach in football, baseball, wrestling and lacrosse, as well as a Business Manager and Assistant Director of Athletics. The only disruption to his service at Lehigh came while serving as a Major in the U.S. Army in World War II. Short passed away on November 17, 1967 at the age of 57 and was inducted into the Roger S. Penske/Lehigh Athletics Hall of Fame in 2000.

Throughout his time as an administrator Short was an avid fan of Lehigh track and cross country and was a frequent spectator at their meets both near and far. Not long after Short’s death, Lehigh’s track/cross country coach, John Covert (HOF ’05) began organizing a cross country meet for Lehigh’s brand new course. After some thought, Covert and athletic department administrator John Steckbeck (HOF ’92) decided to name the new meet after the program’s longtime fan.

The first Paul Short Run took place in 1969 when seven men’s teams competed. Women competed for the first time in 1981, when six teams participated. In the early 2000’s, head women’s cross country coach Debbie Utesch, and track and field coach Matt Utesch helped grow the event even more by adding high school races. Today, the meet features 14 races with six college races, six high school races and two open races for men and women. High school and college teams, recreational runners, alumni and fans from around the U.S., and even Canada, make their way to Lehigh’s Goodman Campus Course for the day-long festivities.

In 2019, the Paul Short Run will feature approximately 6,000 athletes and 450 colleges and high schools. The competitive balance at Paul Short has been significant over the years, with only four men’s teams (Villanova, Penn State, Michigan State and Georgetown) and seven women’s teams (Penn State, Georgetown, Villanova, Providence, Princeton, West Virginia and Guelph) having won consecutive championships.
